Tell us the names and authors of 3 books you really liked reading and hearing:

Tip: Laughter is a great way to catch and keep preschoolers' attention when reading aloud, and there are hundreds of humorous picture books for children. Use our Laugh-Out-Loud Picture Books list to find titles that will tickle your child's funny bone.

How to use your read-aloud log:

1. For every book someone reads aloud to your child, cross off one circle on this sheet.
2. When you have crossed out all 100 circles on front and back, bring this log to the Prescott Public Library.
3. Give this sheet to the person at the desk. You will get a small reward and the next log sheet.

You may count reading aloud done by parents, grandparents and other relatives, daycare providers, books read during Storytime at the library, books read by siblings who are fluent readers, etc. You may be surprised by how many books are read to your child during a week!
